

OB/GYN Specialty Training for the Family Practitioner

Cone Health Women's Hospital recruits one to two Family Medicine physicians as Junior Faculty in their well-established OB/GYN Faculty Practice. Our team includes OB/GYNs, OB Fellowship trained Family Medicine doctors, certified nurse midwives, nurse practitioners, and physician assistants. The Faculty Practice works closely with the Wake Forest Maternal Fetal Medicine specialists, who have a state of the art antenatal unit on site.

The hospital is a rotation site for Family Medicine residents from the Cone Health Family Medicine training program, medical students from UNC-Chapel Hill, as well as physician assistant and midwifery students from area programs. Our robust service delivers approximately 1800 babies a year. We service several counties with our high-risk clinic and level-3 NICU. The fellow can expect to be exposed to and feel comfortable managing diabetes, preterm labor, preeclampsia, chronic hypertension, multiple gestations, placentation abnormalities, thyroid disease, and many other medical problems complicating pregnancy.

Women's Hospital has its own Emergency Room where women can receive treatment for obstetrical and gynecological complaints. The fellow will be proficient at doing bedside ultrasounds, diagnosing ectopic pregnancies, evaluating pelvic pain, and managing abnormal bleeding. This education will be invaluable as one enters practice and encounters these complaints routinely.

Our clinical sites include:

- High-risk obstetric clinic—where the most complex cases are seen with attending supervision
- Low-risk obstetric clinic—routine prenatal care, late prenatal care
- Gynecology clinic—annual exams, pelvic pain, endometriosis, abnormal uterine bleeding, dysplasia, etc.
- Family Medicine clinic—continuity patients shared with Dr. Pratt, work-ins
- Center for Women's Health Care at Stoney Creek—Private practice office
- Center for Women's Health Care at Kernersville—Private practice office
- Center for Women's Health Care at High Point – Private practice office
- Family Tree—Private Practice office in Reidsville, NC

Responsibilities:

- Manage team of residents and students on labor and delivery shifts
- Evaluate and treat patients in clinics, approximately 12 per half-day
- Prepare and present didactic teaching sessions
- Participate in rounds
- Take night and weekend call (approximately 4-5 per month)

Procedures:

- Vaginal Deliveries—approximately 200

- Cesarean Section—approximately 120-150
- Operative Deliveries—approximately 10-15
- Postpartum Tubal Ligation—approximately 30
- D & C / D & E—variable depending on desire to learn
- Circumcision—40-50
- Colposcopy—40
- LEEP—approximately 15-20
- IUD insertions—30⁺
- Endometrial Biopsies —50⁺

Requirements

- Successful completion of Family Medicine Residency with three letters of recommendations
- Completion of 80 vaginal deliveries
- Assisted on 10 cesarean sections
- Completion of 10 circumcisions

Salary & Benefits

The fellow receives a salary of $60,000. Benefits include 20 days of sick and vacation time, one week of CME, $1500 of CME funds, and occurrence malpractice coverage.
